Not Bound by Realism

January 9 - March 12, 2007

The selection of paintings currently on display range in date from the mid 1990's to the present day.

As an artist I endeavor to understand and accept human nature in all of its complex majesty. Painting allows me to share the processing of experience. I enjoy the storytelling aspect of art. Each painting shares part of a larger journey, starting from a naive and hopeful worldview to one that holds a greater understanding of our vulnerability and lost innocence. My art conveys awareness to the struggle for survival in a competitive world, but is also an expressionistic portrayal of awe and wonder. Motivation to create an image can come from any number of things, including art, literature, the media, politics and real life involvement.

My art is my sorrow, my hope, my prayer and my joy.
